OFFENDER DIVERSIONARY SCHEME

The Dyfed-Powys Diversionary Scheme seeks to address criminal behaviour at a much earlier stage in an individual's offending journey by tackling the root causes of offending and associated health and community related issues. It aims to reduce the number of victims of crime by offering eligible offenders a four-month long programme of interventions as an alternative to prosecution. Support offered during the interventions include but are not limited to substance misuse, mental health, finance debt and housing.
